LONDON, August 3.

ROYAL REVIEW at MAIDSTONE.

The King, Queen, and Princesses Augusta and Elizabeth, accompanied by the Countess of Harrington, set off in two carriages, on Thursday morning at half past five o'clock, from Kew Palace, for Lord Romney's seat in the Mote Park, Maidstone. The Royal party stopped to breakfast at Earl Camden's seat at River-head, where they were met by the Prince of Wales, Duke of Cumberland, a number of Nobility, and the King's Equerries in waiting. They reached the ground at 12 o'clock, on which above 6000 of the volunteers of the county of Kent were drawn up, under the command of their different officers, and his royal highness the duke of York. Earl Camden gave the word of command to his own corps of cavalry, and Lord Romney to the infantry corps.

The Regiments went through their exercise in a manner highly satisfactory to his Majesty, who expressed the great pleasure he experienced in viewing so fine a body of men.

The various evolutions and manœuvres of the day took up near fours, and were performed throughout in a very soldier-like manner, highly to the satisfaction of the king, the general officers, and the numerous assemblage of respectable and loyal subjects present on this interesting occasion, who testified their approbation by the most exhilirating and repeated plaudits. Not less than 30,000 persons were present, amongst whom were the principal families of the county of Kent, attended by their several equipages. The beautiful diversity of the ground and the fineness of the day (a passing shower about eleven o'clock excepted) heightened a scene peculiarly interesting to British spectators; a beloved Sovereign, attended by his consort and family, seated in the tented field, and surrounded by so distinguished a body of its subjects as volunteers, armed in his defence and that of their country. The royal marquee was pitched on rising ground, and beneath it tables were placed, and allotted for the several corps, stored with substantial fare, with a decanter of wine on the side of each plate. The circular position of the troops at dinner formed a picturesque appearance and it enabled the whole to behold their monarch at their head, while thus seated at their repast.—The interval of relaxation from duty was discreetly, though convivially employed; and loyal toasts, with shouts of applause, resounded throughout the festive circle.—Their majesties did not partake of their elegant refreshment till the whole line was seated, when a sumptuous entertainment was served up in the Regal tent. Lord Romney and his son personally attended on his royal visitants, while his three lovely daughters, the honorable Miss Marshams, were the fair attendants on the two Princesses.

The entertainments to which six thousand five hundred persons sat down, consisted not only of the best and most substantial provisions, but also of every delicacy of the season.

—The Prince of Wales, and the Royal Brothers, with the Stadtholder, dined with their Majesties. The Earls of Spencer, Winchelsea, Chatham, Chesterfield, Mr. Pitt, Mr. Dundas, &c &c. were regaled in a separate tent, on the left of the King's, and formed as joyous a corps as any on the ground! Their Majesties and Princesses took leave of their hospitable and noble host, and left the field at half past six, under a general salute from the three lines; when the whole began to file off from their respective quarters, having been nearly twelve hours under arms. The commanding officers of each battalion assembled their respective officers immediately after the review, and read to them his Majesty's thanks to the different corps for their very zealous and soldier-like conduct, which was conveyed in terms of the most impressive regard. Gen. Sir Charles Grey also, as commander of the district, returned them likewise his warmest acknowledgments for their service on that Day.

At Maidstone, a grand Triumphal Arch was erected by Flint Stacey, Esq. of that town, under which their Majesties and the Royal Family passed, as also the Kent Volunteers. It extended from one end of Mr. Stacey's house across the street, having a carriage way of 18 feet wide, and 23 feet high to the inside of the arch, with a foot way on each side, making a beautiful appearance on both sides by day, and was a perfect brilliancy by night, being lighted up with 3300 lamps.

This beautiful structure, which was quite applicable to the day and the occasion for which it was erected, is of the Ionic order, after the Grecian manner, having pilasters 2 feet diameter, panelled, and richly ornamented with transparent paintings of wreaths of laurel, and olive, interchangeably, on a gold coloured ground, as emblems of victory and peace, supporting an entablature of the order from the principal outline.—In the frize of the pilasters are illuminated stars with pedestals over them, on the tops of their cornices, having G. R. in a cypher. In the subplinth lineable with and between these pedestals is written—

"Kent Volunteers."

And in the spandrils of the arch

"Loyal, Brave, and Free."

all transparent in large letters of gold on a lapislazuli ground; above this is a large tablet containing, by a pannel, a transparent painting, the subject Britannia seated on a rock pointing to the Temple of Fame seen in perspective. The sea appears between, with shipping, and a distant view of the "Battle of the Nile."

Supporting this tablet, resting on the cornice, are transparencies of the Lion and Unicorn, on a large scale. On each side of the arch, over the footways, are transparent medallions, 3 feet diameter, of Generals Suwarrow and the Archduke Charles, and in the centre of the arch, pendant from a key-stone, of four hands united, is another transparency, an oval medallion of his majesty, 6 feet diameter, decorated with festoons of variegated lamps, and the whole surmounted by a regal crown, richly painted and illuminated.—This erection is not merely a scene but a transparent building, shewing on each side the same, and of course requiring duplicates of every thing, occupying a depth of more than 5 feet, and containing an apartment on which were disposed and hung the lamps for the service of the transparency, independent of those of the outside, which had a very fine effect.

To give an idea of the dinner provided for the Companies of Volunteers, we shall enumerate the general Dishes, consisting of 2340 in number:

3 Score Lambs, in quarters, making
240 Dishes.
700 Fowls, three in a dish.
300 Hams, 300 Tongues.
220 Dishes of Boiled Beef.
220 Dishes of Roast Beef.
220 Meat Pies.
220 Fruit Pies.
220 Joints of Roast Veal.

Seven pipes of Port were bottled off by his Lordship's Butler; and what more might be wanted was ready in pipes in his Lordship's cellar to be supplied.

Sixteen butts of Ale, and as much small Beer was also placed in large vessels to supply the company, and a pump was fixed outside of the house, which communicated with the cellar, for the purpose of obtaining what more might be necessary.

There was a range of carriages from the entrance of the Great Park, the ingress of which lasted from five in the morning till twelve.

Let the hungry Frenchman read this; let the Jacobin attempt to conceive if he can the thrilling sensation which ran through every breast, when his Majesty's health was drank at signal of cannon, and cheered with three times three, along these loyal and festive boards; and when, afterwards, united with their thousand voices, martial bands sounded to the animating songs of "God save the King," "Rule Britannia," &c.

Lord ROMNEY's expenses on the above occasion, exceeded Fifteen Thousand Pounds.

THE LAY PREACHER.

"Marry thy daughter, and ſo ſhalt thou have performed a weighty matter; but marry her to a man of underſtanding."

THE peruſal of what are denominated the Apocryphal Books is a ſource, whence may be derived much rich inſtruction and pleaſing entertainment. The ſententious apothegms of the Book of Eccleſiaſticus will be read with delight and utility by thoſe, who ſeek for correct ideas upon life and manners. In this Book, is found the text, which forms our preſent theme of diſcourſe, and the importance of the precept it contains will warrant a deviation from the Canonical Books.

To Parents, our diſcourſe is addreſſed, upon an intereſting point. Ye, who have been converſant with the pulſations of the parental heart, well know, that the formation of the matrimonial union by your children, is indeed "a weighty matter." Ye know, that it is incumbent upon the parent, to be ever vigilant, leſt the happineſs of his child be forever blighted. Ye know with what jealouſy, parental advice and interference, upon this ſubject, are ever regarded. Ye alſo well know, that, in "the hey-day of the blood," reaſon is rarely conſulted as a guide, that paſſion is the chief impulſe of the ſoul, and that the conſiderations, which ſhould be moſt impreſſive, are reſerved for a late repentance. Ye know, that this connexion may give your children happineſs and honor, or may doom them to miſery and degradation. Knowing theſe things, ye will readily aſſent to my doctrine, that this is "a weighty matter." Thus it muſt be viewed by the conſiderate and obſerving, tho' it be quite otherwiſe regarded, by the beardleſs youth, who is impelled by a blind infatuation, to enter the back door of the Temple of Hymen, and the romantic miſs, who ventures upon a trip to Gretna Green for happineſs.

The Apocryphal writer directs;—"Marry thy daughter, and ſo ſhalt thou have performed a weighty matter; but marry her to a man of underſtanding." Is it ſuppoſeable, that he, who "takes thought" for the happineſs of his daughter, would marry her to any, ſave "a man of underſtanding?" Yes; there are thoſe, and "they are many," who regard not the worthleſſneſs of the ſtatue, if covered by ſplendid gilding; and who are ſatisfied with a ſumptuous exterior, tho' unaccompanied by ſubſtantial worth. There are thoſe, who, from birth and fortune, claim pre-eminence, with whom underſtanding is nought, and to whom the productions of genius are as "pearls caſt before ſwine." There are thoſe, who know neither how to diſcriminate, nor how to value, the "man of underſtanding." There are thoſe, among the high ones of the earth, who would ſooner marry a daughter to the frothy coxcomb, who is a ſtanding ſpecimen of the fripperies, which degrade, and the vices, which diſgrace our ſpecies, than to the man, who poſſeſſes talents to enlarge the boundaries of ſcience, or energy to ſave a falling ſtate. There are thoſe, who would court an alliance with the "popinjay," who ſhines with luſtre in the graces of the drawing room and the gallantries of the dance; but would ſpurn, with bitter ſcorn, from ſuch a connection, the man, who has no wealth but genius, and no pride but that which flows from conſcious virtue. This is a canker of the mind, which will not be cured by moral admonition, and nought but experience will teach ſuch parents the true diſtinction between the "man of underſtanding" and the "golden fool."

I muſt here remark, and I will do it with honeſt frankneſs, that the fair themſelves afford too ſparing countenance to the man of underſtanding. The unpoliſhed deportment, which is almoſt inſeparable from thoſe habits of ſeclusion, which lead to greatneſs, is a hardy obſtacle to female favor. The ſimpering beau, who is, confeſſedly, the moſt contemptible being in God's creation, will be found a favorite in the ſplendid circles of gaiety and faſhion; whilſt the portion of the modeſt "man of underſtanding" is the contumely of the proud, and the chilling ſcorn of fancied greatneſs. But, let it be remarked, that, tho' the "man of underſtanding" do not "caper nimbly to the pleaſing of a lute," tho' he have no eye to ſee the poliſhed teeth, the painted cheeks, and pencilled brows of beauty; tho' he have no tongue, that can mechanically run the round of falſehood; nature has placed him on an eminence, which peers high o'er the pampered ſons of wealth and grandeur.

If opulence could ſecure from miſery, or noble blood produce unmurred bliſs, the precept in the text ſhould ſtand, "marry thy daughter to the wealthy, or the great." But, he whoſe views are wiſely directed to the happineſs of his child, will ſeek, "as for hid treaſure," for a "man of underſtanding." When thou haſt allied thy daughter to ſuch an one, thou haſt, indeed, "performed a weighty matter." Experience will demonſtrate thy wiſdom. If opulence be his, he knows how to uſe the boon of Providence. If the ſtorms of adverſity aſſail him, there will remain to him a poſſeſſion, which is nature's richeſt gift. But the Parent, who ſeeks for an alliance with wealth or grandeur, without regard to underſtanding and integrity, is ſtupidly mean and ignominiouſly ſordid. It may be ſaid in a ſingle word, that, for the gratification of the meaneſt of all pride, ſuch an one ſells his own blood to a "legal proſtitution."

I conclude by enforcing the precept in my text;—"Marry thy daughter, ſo ſhalt thou have performed a weighty matter." But be not ſeduced to marry her to a "man void of underſtanding," even tho' "the diſhes of luxury cover his table, the voice of harmony lull him in his bowers, he breathe the fragrance of the groves of Java, and ſleep on the down of the cygnets of the Ganges."

The Lay Preacher of Pennſylvania.

PRIESTLEY.

IT is clear that this delving old Illuminatus, views the election of the Chief Juſtice, as the commencement of a new æra, in which ſedition ſhall ceaſe to be odious—hoſtility to all the fundamental principles of eſtabliſhed order in America, ceaſe to be a crime. Accordingly we find him burſting from thoſe trammels which policy had impoſed upon him, and arranging himſelf deciſively under the Banners of thoſe men, who have avowed their determination to "bring back the days of Seventy-Six," or in other words to abrogate Federaliſm, and to found a ſimple Democracy.

As a Religionist, this meek, modeſt Philoſophizer, appears no leſs offenſive, than as a Politician. He came to America, the Sectarian of a peculiar religious creed, which had few adherents among us; and whether theſe his peculiar opinions were ſound or unſound, the fact that they were held in contempt by the greater part of the community, would, methinks, have impoſed on any decent man, profeſſing them, ſome degree of regard for the opinions of others, in the ſteps taken to enforce them. Behold, on the contrary, this humble, inoffenſive, and much-injured man, who wiſhes only to reform his fellow-men in their civil and religious polity, ſtigmatizing with the odious charge of Idolatry, every ſect and denomination of Chriſtians, who do not with him believe in the non-entity of the Holy Ghoſt, and that our Lord and Saviour, Jeſus Chriſt, is a private perſon:—theſe in his language, are all "IDOLATROUS CHRISTIANS"!

As a French citizen, I ſhould incline to take many ſerious exceptions to this diſintereſted Illuminator of the Religious and Political Darkneſs of this Enlightened country. But, unhappily, a ſtate of things has been brought to paſs, which renders it improper to object this to him as a diſqualification, and confirms what he advances on the ſubject. He may, therefore, without danger of contradiction, proceed onward, "with perfect freedom," in his compariſon of France with America, and of French Republicaniſm with that of the United States; and give his preference to the former.

The ſcantling of his Philoſophy with which he bleſſes us in his Book, and in which he expreſſes his confidence that the innovations of Frenchmen in the Science of Chemiſtry, muſt yet bow before old Phlogiſton, is a topic well calculated to excite our ridicule. However ſlimſy are many, and however prepoſterous more of the French Reformations, the exploſion of the doctrine of Phlogiſton, is unqueſtionably an approach towards ſenſe and ſoundneſs; nor will the old man ever be able to retort the prevalent belief in that regard to his purpoſes, however his fame as a Philoſopher may depend on the event.

It appears that the Reverend Fugitive of Northumberland has lately addreſſed the inhabitants of that town and neighborhood in a ſeries of letters, tending, partly to magnify himſelf and partly to depreciate the government which ſtill indulges him with an aſylum.

This meagre, abortive product of, appears, on the ſlighteſt view, the offſpring of mortified vanity.

Non noſtri faciunt, tibi quod tua Tempora ſordent,
Sed faciunt Mores Cæciliane tui.

Its peeviſh author, weary of the utter inſignificance to which public opinion has conſigned him, makes one deſperate effort to attract attention by becoming himſelf the herald of his own atchievements. Fondly miſtaking the fulſome flatteries of the moſt diminutive among the religious ſects in England, for an evidence of general eſtimation, he ſeems aſtoniſhed that theſe ſoothing ſounds no longer reach his ear. Elevated for a moment on the baſis of faction, his pigmy conſequence ſwelled as he thought to the gigantic; and now that returning reaſon has thrown him from his pedeſtal, the meekneſs and humility of his temper are inadequate to endure the degradation. What ſtronger proof of the ſtate of neglect and deſtitution to which this ſilly, vain old man is reduced than this very pamphlet? If he could have reſorted to the advice of a ſingle friend, he would hardly have been permitted thus to lay bare his own infirmities. The public eye would not have been ſolicited to this naſeous compound of vanity and imbecility—to this childiſh tale, of which Prieſtley is the hero and Prieſtly the narrator. This nerveleſs zealot might then have been admoniſhed that he had already ſealed his own diſgrace, beyond the power of any confeſſion however ample to aggravate. That his name might indeed add one to the muſter-roll of ſedition but that he could ſcarcely aſpire beyond the dignity of a follower of the camp—that the ſplendor of his merits was ſunk in dim eclipſe before the ſuperior effulgence of a Duane, a Callender, and thouſand others, advanced to mortifying pre-eminence above him. He might have been reminded that in his feeble energies even the paroxyſms of ſeditious frenzy were inſufficient to rouſe any effective exertion—that his impotent fury would only ſerve to provoke the ſcorn of his adverſaries, loathed and abhorred as the filthy ſlaver of a ſerpent that cannot bite.

This puny abortion muſt neceſſarily be ſhort-lived. Among the votaries of genuine liberty, the friends of order and good government, its inſignificance may reſcue it from indignant reprobation to conſign it to quiet contempt. No document was needed to aſcertain the character of its author. The queſtion indeed has no claim on the public intereſt. Timidity itſelf could apprehend no danger from ſuch an adverſary. The jacobins, under whoſe banners he exults to range, may coldly commend the zeal which inflames him, but their praiſes will extend no farther—they will lament that diſpoſitions like his are doomed to exhauſt themſelves in harmleſs efforts—that the public peace is ſecured againſt the venom of the ſhaft, by the want of vigor in the bow—they will admit the ſincerity with which he fraternizes, and admire the unbluſhing hardineſs with which he avows himſelf their aſſociate. But alas theſe encomiums ſo dear to his ambition will be robbed of half their worth. Tho' driven to the enliſtment of almoſt all who preſent themſelves, the leaders of jacobiniſm would probably excuſe the ſervices of this forward veteran—they would indulge him with permiſſion to withdraw from the field—Jam tempus abire tibi.

Within the narrow range through which ſuch a performance is likely to circulate it is to be hoped that every allowance will be made for its author. Let it be remembered that the Cacoethes Scribendi can hardly be cured at the age of ſixty—that the man whom a modern ſatiriſt has deſcribed "to write on all things but on nothing well" muſt of courſe be expected to extend his blunders to politics—that while the alien and ſedition laws are permitted to ſlumber, beings of his deſcription muſt feel temptation irreſiſtible, to venture forth—that to the dupe of vanity, ſelf is the moſt inviting theme, and that when public neglect is ſuperadded, to ſound his own praiſes becomes a matter of neceſſity.

MR. J. W. FENNO,

AGAIN you have been miſinformed: It is true, that the Jemima and Fanny formerly belonged to John Smith and James Biays; but, it is not true that thoſe gentlemen were then or are now a branch of my houſe of trade. The truth is, that John Smith ſold his concern in that veſſel to James Biays, who afterwards ſold her to Mr. Magruder, by whom ſhe was laden and proceeded to ſea as well veſſel as cargo the ſole property of that gentleman. She was the ſecond veſſel and cargo belonging to him carried into France and liberated during laſt Summer (as I have been informed) The cauſe aſſigned for this releaſe was that they were unarmed. As to my property, when carried into France or her dependencies, it invariably has been condemned except in the inſtance of the James at Guadaloupe, about four years paſt.

S. SMITH.

"The Democrats have been ſuffered quietly to ſhake off the appellation of "anti-federaliſts," for the more ſignificant one of Republicans. And in the ſame quietude, they are proceeding to render odious and contemptible, as far as lies in their power, that of "Federaliſt," one fellow humorouſly calls me "a Federal blockhead," and another repels as a ſlander the charge which had been brought againſt him, of being a Federaliſt. Another inroad in making by a ſect calling themſelves True Americans. If a name is of no conſequence; if it be an indifferent thing whether we are ſaved or ruined with or without a name, all this may be well enough—though it would be a cruel ſarcaſm if ſome wag of a republican, in ſpeaking of his antagoniſt, were to uſe the Tyburn chronicle ſtyle, and ſay of him that he is a friend to government, alias a Federaliſt, alias a True American, &c. &c.

That was a pleaſant idea enough of the brave and honeſt Turk, which is ſo admirably detailed to us by Sir Sidney, to admit a part of the aſſaulting Frenchmen into the garden, where a loyal and united band ſtood prepared with DAGGERS to receive them; but the Pacha would not have given free paſſage to them, had there been an horde of parricides within ready to embrace them as friends and deliverers.

The preſent hopes of Democrats are fleeting and viſionary—no leſs deſtructible even by conſummation than defeat. For the means by which they aim at ſucceſs, muſt inevitably periſh in that ſucceſs; and of what conſequence is it to a man that he gain the whole world, if he loſe his own ſoul?

LEGISLATURE of NORTH-CAROLINA.
House of Commons, Nov. 20.

The following meſſage from his Excellency the Governor were read;

To the hon. the General Aſſembly of the State of North-Carolina.

GENTLEMEN,

Being appointed a Miniſter Plenipotentiary to the French Republic, in conjunction with Oliver Elliſworth, Chief Juſtice of the United States, and Mr. Vaas Murray, miniſter at the Hague, for the purpoſe of diſcuſſing and ſettling by treaty all controverſies between the United States and France, I tho't it my duty to accept the appointment, if a negociation ſhould take place, on aſſurances that would ſecure the honor, intereſts and dignity of the United States.

The probability that the exiſting differences between the French government and this country, would ſoon break out in open war. I am ſenſible was among the principal cauſes which induced my fellow citizens to appoint me to the exerciſe of the executive powers of the ſtate, with a view that any knowledge or experience I had acquired in military affairs, might be more immediately and extenſively uſeful in caſe of an invaſion by the armies of France. Under this impreſſion, I ſhould have not conſidered myſelf at liberty to have accepted any appointment inconſiſtent with the object of the general aſſembly in my election to the office of governor of the ſtate; but every conſideration led me to believe that I could not promote their views more eſſentially, or render my country a more important or acceptable ſervice, than by uniting my efforts to a miſſion, which had for its object the prevention of war, and an amicable adjuſtment of all differences between the United States and the republic of France.

The ſtate of the buſineſs committed to my ſuperintendance by the laſt general aſſembly, will be laid before you in ſeperate meſſages, ſo as to be more eaſily capable of diſtinct references, ſhould you deem ſuch meaſure neceſſary.

NEW YORK, December 6.

Yeſterday arrived here a French Cutter ſloop, a prize to the United States' brig Norfolk, capt. Bainbridge—loaded with coffee—was bound from Jeremie to Cuba. She was captured on the 7th ult. off Cape Nicola Mole, and while in poſſeſſion of an uncommiſſioned barge, of 10 ſwivels, ſaid to belong to Touſſaint. The barge was ſunk by order of Commodore Talbot of the United States frigate Conſtitution, then in co. with the Norfolk.

The captain and two men belonging to the above Cutter, were killed by the bargemen at the time of her being taken.

There were no papers found on board the Cutter—She is Engliſh built, and draws 11 feet water.

Lieut. Kenyon is on board as prize maſter, and Mr. Hethcote, of Burlington, (N. J.) a midſhipman in our navy.

They left the Conſtitution and Norfolk on the 25th ult. off Cape Francois.

HORRID MURDER!

Laſt Sunday morning was found murdered in a ciſtern in Hague Street, the wife of William Malone, formerly widow Roſe—what adds to this cruel barbarity is, a ſuppoſition that this inhuman act was put in execution to procure what property ſhe brought to this man, (who is now in cuſtody) and whom ſhe married the Sunday preceeding.—The Coroners inqueſt have not yet given in their verdict.

LUDICROUS.

Yeſterday a black fellow, who had ſhipped himſelf on board the Lucky Owner's Delight, now lying in the ſtream, was purſued for debt. In order to elude the Conſtables, he aſcended the maſt early in the morning, where he continued till dark, before he was got down, though frequent attempts were made through day to diſlodge him.

WINCHESTER'S
LECTURES on the PROPHECIES that remain to be fulfilled.

THE Public are hereby informed that in conſequence of a requeſt having been made at the Univerſaliſt Church in Lombard-ſtreet "for a regular delivery of the above" Lectures, which being granted, the delivery of the ſame will commence on Sunday evening next at 6 o'clock, and be continued ſucceſſively on Sunday evenings until the whole are completed.

The above Lectures having been delivered in London to the great ſatisfaction of very numerous audiences of both Chriſtians and Jews who honored them with their attendance; their being ſo little known in this country, and now out of print; muſt render the delivery of them an object worthy of public attention.

A work ſo replete with ſound reaſoning and ſcripture proof—ſo well calculated to vindicate Revelation by proving its conſiſtency with itſelf, as well as with all the attributes of Deity, and thereby to reclaim the miſtaken, but well meaning deiſt: and withal ſo truly intereſting to all mankind, cannot but excite the curioſity, and attract the attention of the enquiring minds of the Citizens of Philadelphia, at the preſent very important era of the world.

N. B. A ſyllabus of their contents will be publiſhed and delivered at the Church gratis, the following Sunday evening.

Just Published,

A COMPENDIOUS SYSTEM

Of Practical Surveying and dividing of land; briefly comprized under the following heads, viz.

TWENTY-THREE Geometrical Definitions, eleven Geometrical Positions, exhibiting to view the properties and dependencies of triangles; followed by problems and examples preparatory to Trigonometry, heights and distances. Then fifteen problems and examples neceſſarily previous to calculating a Survey ſucceeded by ſeven ſurveys, the area of the four firſt is found geometrically, and of the whole number by difference of latitude and departure, ſhewing how to take an inacceſſible boundary, find the bearing and diſtance of the cloſing line without running it, alſo the diſtances to an inacceſſible corner from the two adjacent corners, followed by examples of offſets on to winding ſtreams of water, ſhewing how to aſcertain the area without the trouble of meaſuring the windings with chains and inſtruments—a crooked water courſe ſtraitened, and a quantity of land on each ſide found by theſe offſets.

Ten examples of dividing land, with many ſub-diviſions, leading into the moſt critical circumſtances that can occur in practice; an example of Interſections, and an example ſhewing how the bearings of a field may be truly taken where the needle is attracted, altho' the attraction may vary in quantity and denomination at every ſtation; examples ſhewing the method of meaſuring by the chain only. All the rules are clear and explicit. This work contains the tables of difference of latitude and departure and of logarithms.

Orders ſent to Joſeph and James Cruckſhank, Bookſellers, No. 87, High-ſtreet, Philadelphia, Bonſall and Niles, 173, Market Street, Baltimore, or the Subſcriber in Wilmington (Del.) will be duly attended to.

Thoſe who have the care of ſubſcription papers for this work, are requeſted to ſend their reſpective numbers as ſoon as poſſible, to whom the quota's will be ſent agreeably to the propoſals.

Subſcribers will have it at their option, either to ſubſcribe for the whole of the Journals, up to the preſent time, or to thoſe only of the Old Congreſs prior to the organization of the Federal Government.

IN all countries, the proceedings in the commencement of their governments, are loſt in darkneſs and obſcurity, owing to a careleſsneſs, in the ſucceeding generation, to preſerve the public records, and the attention of the nation, in thoſe rude ages, being called off from their domeſtic concerns, to engage in wars and conqueſt. Of what infinite value would the laws of Alfred be, had they been tranſmitted to our days? Time, that deſtroys every thing, enhances the value of well authenticated public records, and renders them almoſt inеſtimable. It is hoped, that Americans will, therefore, chearfully contribute their aſſiſtance in tranſmitting to poſterity the labours of their anceſtors—founders of the Columbian nation.

 The work will certainly be advanced with expedition and promptitude. The following will ſhew the ſupport it has already acquired:

"Reſpectfully ſheweth,

"That having, in our reſpective avocations, frequent occaſions to recur to the Journals of Congreſs, we experience inconvenience by the ſcarcity of them: That we underſtand that Richard Folwell, printer, of Philadelphia, has had it in contemplation to print that public record; and that he hath obtained partial countenance from many individuals; but that he has delayed proſecuting the work, in expectation of encouragement from government, that may adequately indemnify him. We, therefore, reſpectfully ſolicit, as the publication is neceſſary to be diſſeminated among public bodies, that Congreſs will, in their wiſdom render him ſuch additional encouragement, to that which he has obtained from private individuals, as to enable him to proceed with the work, ſo that your Memorialiſts may be enabled to purchaſe copies of that record for themſelves.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,

NOW RUNNING BETWEEN

PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,

By the ſhort and pleaſant road of Buſſleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populouſneſs of the country through which it paſſes, with ſundry other advantages, which render it ſo far preferable to the Old Road through Briſtol, Brunſwick, &c. long ago ſuggeſted the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the preſent year, a minute ſurvey of it has been taken, and its ſuperiority over the Old Road, both in winter and ſummer, has been clearly aſcertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the croſſing is performed with great ſafety and in leſs than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is ſeveral miles ſhorter than the old road, but this is amongſt the leaſt of its advantages, becauſe daily experience proves to us, that diſpatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodneſs of the road and the levelneſs of the country, and, in theſe reſpects, the New Road is, beyond all compariſon, the beſt. It preſents none of thoſe rocky hills, which render the Old Road ſo fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The ſoil, too, for the greater part, is ſuch as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little duſt in ſummer, which circumſtance, added to the beauty of the country, and a conſiderable proportion of ſhade, muſt always render travelling in the latter ſeaſon peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure ſtarts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, oppoſite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth ſtreet. It goes through Frankford to Buſtleton, where it ſtops to Breakfaſt; from Buſtletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millſtone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it ſtops at Springfield to breakfaſt, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it ſtarts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For ſeats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee houſe, to A. Mathieu, corner of Naſſau and John ſtreets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich ſtreet, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad ſtreet.

Fare for paſſengers, Five Dollars.
Way paſſengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each paſſenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a paſſenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With reſpect to packages ſent on without paſſengers, the proprietors preſume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of ſtages, they think muſt meet with general approbation, They pledge themſelves to make good every package on the following conditions. The perſon who delivers the package at the office ſhall ſee it entered in the ſtage-book, for which entry he ſhall pay 6 cents; he will then ſtate the value of the package, and pay (excluſive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as inſurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for inſtance, if he eſtimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent, and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar inſurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few perſons it is preſumed, will diſlike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himſelf of this ſecurity or not. But the proprietors think it right to ſtate very explicitly, that they will be reſponſible for the ſafe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an inſurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the diſtribution of the route, the greateſt care has been taken to fix on ſuch places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the paſſengers at the moſt reaſonable rates The ſtages are well equipped furniſhed with fleet and ſteady horſes, and committed to the care of intelligent ſober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themſelves live at the different towns and villages where the ſtages will ſtop, ſo that the conduct of the perſons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care alſo to ſee that the paſſengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no ſort of chicanery or inſolence is practiſed upon them; in ſhort, they have ſpared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very beſt line of ſtages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every paſſenger has found the road to ſurpaſs very far all that has been ſaid of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviour of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns ſpoken of with the higheſt ſatisfaction.
